WORLD BOXING COMPETITION RULES

IN FORCE NOVEMBER 2023

Compliance with World Boxing Competition Rules

These Competition Rules have been established to ensure fair, equal and safe competitions for boxers. The rules apply to all World Boxing Competitions and Boxing Competitions organised by World Boxing Members. National Federations may not develop their own Competition Rules that are contradictory to these rules. Nevertheless, National Federations may modify these Competition Rules for competitions under their jurisdiction to align with their respective national laws, provided that such modifications do not undermine World Boxing Competition Rules, particularly concerning all medical and safety standards.

Amendment of World Boxing Competition Rules

Pursuant to the World Boxing Statutes, amendments to these Competition Rules are made at the World Boxing Congress. Prior to the Congress, National Federations, the Sports and Competition Committee and the World Boxing Executive Board are entitled to submit proposals for altering these Competition Rules. The Executive Board will evaluate and process all proposals and will present a final version of amended Competition Rules to the Congress for its consideration and approval.

World Boxing Executive Board has the power to make emergency amendments to the Competition Rules in exceptional circumstances where a particular rule is no longer working or the environment and circumstances surrounding a particular rule has changed, and the necessary amendment cannot wait until the next Congress. Any emergency amendments must be ratified at the next Congress.
